

Residents of Retirement Villages Victoria is an association which represents the interests of residents of retirement villages. Such associations exist in other states and provide a collective voice on the issues needs and problems affecting the residents of retirement villages

What does it do?

Residents of Retirement Villages Victoria (RRVV) is a members' organisation that is run by and for residents.

RRVV –

- provides information and support to members,
- educates members and the broader community about the issues affecting retirement village residents;
- contributes to policy debate on behalf of the community of village residents;
- promotes interaction between retirement village residents throughout Victoria.

While RRVV cannot resolve disputes or provide legal advice, it can refer you to the services, agencies and government departments that will assist you.

Residents of Retirement Villages Victoria Inc is funded by Consumer Affairs Victoria through the Victorian Property Trust.

For further information, RRVV's contact details are:

Ph: (03) 9655 2119
Email: residentsassociation@cotavic.org.au
Postal address: PO Box 8080, Croydon Vic.3136